

Middle-Age Superbook #2 10 Books to Help Enjoy Aging

The ten books about dealing with money, stress, people, family, life and tapping into your true nature as you age are as follows: Book 1. Discover your True Identity Book 2. Your True Nature-Natural Inspiration is all you Own Book 3. Atheism vs. Religion: Are We Mortal or Divine? Book 4. Credit-Debt Guide Book 5. Tax Guide Book 6. Government Job Offices, Headhunters & Job Boards Book 7. Outdoor Adventure Guide Book 8. Gardening Guide Book 9. Lifelong Learning Guide Book 10. Divorce & Child Support Guide Most people think they're free and enlightened even though they're massively brainwashed. Type terms like brainwash and indoctrination into youtube to get good documentary movies on the subject. You would think that older people eventually discover their true natures and break free from cultural brainwash but I still see it everywhere. A lot of people are caught up in some box or matrix of life. This is not a cutesie youth advice book telling you to eat your cereal, go to bed early and be disciplined. That's all one-dimensional advice that fails because it's not who you are in your true nature. I'm telling you to discover who you are in your pure essence. Don't make the big mistake thinking that other people, namely system-sanctioned professionals and the Social Sciences Formal Knowledge Infrastructure have wisdom about life that you don't know about. All the wisdom in the Universe is inside of you if you listen for it. I went through the whole deal within society until I discovered that everything out there is someone else's truth, mostly a lie. There are standards of absolute morality like The Ten Commandments and the idea that you shouldn't take more than you need but that's it. My wisdom is knowing my own natural standard in life and honoring it. This is as good as it gets. When someone throws artificial values at us, it messes weak, unenlightened people up. You can be intelligent but most people do not get wisdom and enlightenment until they live alone for awhile to experience life and think about it day after day. Just because someone gives you a stern look and pretends theyre a pillar of the community doesnt mean anything to me because I know that what I feel and think is the same as every man feels and thinks. You cannot deny who you are by nature. If you do, you will live a messed-up miserable life. We shouldnt deal with sex by saying be monogamous and thats it because its not true but I wont touch that here. You live in your own head alone regardless of what social group or community you might think youre part of. Everybody is a loner going through life alone most of the time. A lot of young people dont know this. They give too much power to what the collective group says about them. You should listen to the voice within. Thats the most powerful thing you own. As long as you dont break any laws, hurt people or animals or do anything immoral, your life is yours to do with as you please. The problem is that a lot of people buy into other peoples views of life plus they buy into the view of life marketed on TV. This book will help open your mind to the truth which is that if you discover your true nature then honor it by releasing most of that natural energy inside of you everyday to do something good that you like to do and are proud of, you will live a much better life than most people. Chapter 1. Pop Culture Entertainment Destroys People Media Literacy /Media Education Most powerful is he who has himself in his own power. Seneca Just because something is on TV doesnt mean that its important, true or relevant to life. Its all about selling advertising. Content doesnt matter much as long as they can keep attracting viewers regardless of how silly the stuff is they put on. Most of what you see, even on reality shows and many news scenes, is created by media professionals then presented as real life.
